Second Lap of Air Flight Over Wild Portion of Globe

Siberian Steppes, Wildest Country On Earth,
To Be Crossed.

MAKING FAST TIME

Expect To Reach Tokyo
Monday Night At Earliest.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 15. (Thursday.)—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin left her home port at 4:34 a. m. today (10:52 p. m. Eastern standard time Wednesday) for Tokyo, second stop on her epoch-making flight around the world.

A perilous flight of from 6,000 to 7,000 miles faced the big dirigible. Much of it lay over territory un-mapped and unexplored.

With 20 passengers and a crew of 40 aboard, Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran of four crossings of the Atlantic ocean, entered upon his longest and most dangerous voyage.

The commander of the Graf estimated that the flight would take 120 hours under the most favorable circumstances. The Graf's greatest test previously was 111 hours on her first transatlantic voyage.

The Zeppelin will be in Tokyo, barring accidents, on Monday night at the very earliest, after crossing European Russia and thence over some of the wildest territory existing on the earth, the steppes of Siberia.

Dr. Eckener's immediate course lay northeast of Friedrichshafen to Berlin, Danzig and Moscow. Everything in the later part of the course will depend on the weather the Zeppelin encounters.

Thousands Cheer Departure
The great dirigible as it rose rapidly into the moonlit sky despite its heavy cargo, starting only four minutes after schedule time.

After cruising over Friedrichshafen, the Graf turned northeast toward Berlin.

The morning was almost windless and the clear sky greatly facilitated getting the airship out of the hangar through the west entry.

Seven and one-half hours after taking off, the big ship was reported on the Baltic coast, having covered 160 miles at an average speed of 60 miles per hour, her usual cruising speed.

Soldier of Fortune Served Five Nations

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 15. (AP)—A soldier of fortune, William G. McLaugh, mess sergeant at Brooks field, has served under five flags in the past 31 years.

At 18, he fought with Roosevelt's rough riders at Santiago. Later he took part in a Honduras revolution, fought pirates in the Indian ocean and served in the World War under three governments.

McLaugh, a full-blooded Chickasaw Indian first joined the French foreign legion. He was gassed, and later joined the British navy. With the Canadian army, he went back to France, was wounded, recovered and enlisted in Uncle Sam's army in 1918.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Aug. 15. (AP)—Jeers and hisses greeted reference to Bishop James Cannon Jr. last night as Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, New York, in an address before the Institute of Public Affairs, sought to defend the Methodist official against attacks in the press.

What appeared to be the greater part of the audience indulged in the noisy demonstration. After the noise had subsided, Mr. High changed to another tone of his speech and omitted the remainder of that portion in his prepared address which referred to the bishop.

He was seeking to say that the wets restoring to mauling was an indication that the "fight must be going badly."

Vice President Announces

Mr. Kraft Accompanied
Here By A. J. Riddle
and H. C. Jordan.

C. H. Kraft, of Chicago, vice-president and general manager of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese company, visited the local plant today and announced that his concern was well pleased with the showing made by the Hope unit since the beginning of operations last February.

Mr. Kraft made two announcements that will be of great interest to local dairymen—the price of butter-fat will be raised from 48 cents per pound to 50 cents, and the Kraft-Phenix company has formally approved the hiring of a field agent whose salary will be borne jointly by the citizens of Hope and the cheese factory.

The field agent, who is already employed, is George Slaygash, of this county. Accompanying Mr. Kraft on his local inspection were A. J. Riddle, of Kansas City, southwestern manager for Kraft; and H. C. Jordan, of Carlisle, Ark., state manager. Mr. Riddle and Mr. Jordan are well known here because of earlier visits.

Further encouragement was received by Hope Chamber of Commerce in a letter written by W. H. Woodley, dairy expert of the University of Arkansas, who said, "You are to be complimented for the poundage record thus far at the cheese factory. On my last visit I warned you not to be discouraged if milk deliveries during this season fell as low as 2,500 pounds."

Milk deliveries have been running around 6,000 pounds daily.

Proves To Be Good
Detective Story.

"The Donovan Affair," all-talking Columbia picture, was shown at the New Grand theatre last night in the first of a two-day engagement.

Franklin Horton, New Grand manager, said that the sound installation was made especially for this attraction. The audience was excellent last night, and the picture, which features Jack Holt and other nationally known players, developed an intensely interesting and amusing detective story.

Like "The Bat," audiences attending "The Donovan Affair" are requested not to divulge the plot, which has a puzzling twist at the end.

Inside the hall members of the mob struck Acting Mayor T. Scammess Walmsley and other members of the commission Council and attacked the police. One of the policemen shot four men after he had been knocked down and kicked. After being driven from the City Hall, by tear bombs the mob made a second attack on the City Hall but was again driven back.

Wife Beater Wants To Stay for Regular Meals

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 15. (AP)—Tony Marono, 27, was released from jail here recently, a most disappointed individual. Disappointed because he could not stay here, he explained.

Tony had been locked up for beating his wife. The wife, he it known, had forgiven his cave-man tactics (as women do), and insured his release by withdrawing the charges against him. As she left the courtroom she smiled at Tony and urged him to follow her home.

Instead her belligerent spouse turned to an officer and asked to be locked up again. The judge told him jails are for those who don't want to be locked up.

"All right," said Tony. "Just you wait. I go home. I take a good soak at her. Then you will bring me back, just the same."

Meals were not regular at home, Tony said.

Rat Extermination Secret Dies With Houston Man

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 15. (AP)—The secret of exterminating rats by the hundreds has been carried to the grave by the Pied Piper of Houston.

Andrew Schroeder, 51, who at the time of his death was employed as the official rat killer of Houston, won world-wide recognition a few years ago when he exterminated thousands of rats during the New Orleans bubonic plague scare.

Schroeder has a special method of using a special gas to kill rats in buildings into the street to die, and he never told the secret.

Seek Highway Along Mexico-U. S. Border

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 15. (AP)—The "Big Bend" country of southwestern Texas has organized in support of an $18,000,000 military highway from Brownsville, Texas, to San Diego, Cal., the entire length of the United States-Mexico boundary.

The Military Highway association, representing 100 miles of the stretch, has been formed by four Texas border counties. Its purpose is to aid a bill introduced in Congress by Rep. Claude Hudsmith, who has asked authority for the war department to construct such a road.

In his bill, Hudsmith urged that a border highway would be a way of enforcing prohibition, narcotic, custom and immigration laws. He characterizes it as "a purely military proposition of national defense," adds that much of this semi-arid border country would not otherwise be developed.

Interesting Facts About the Festival

Many people, even here in Hope, have no idea of the magnitude of the task of putting over a Melon Festival nor what it costs to do it. This year the Legion, sponsoring the Festival under appointment by the Chamber of Commerce, invested a trifle more than $3,000 in the event. And it is expected a final check up will show a deficit of approximately $100 for the post to pay.

Watermelons, 6,000 pounds more than were served last year, were distributed here on August 8. Last year the current price was around 45c per hundred pounds; this year for $1 to $1.25. Slightly different, eh? Then what was the size of the crowd here this year?

It took city and county officers, special officers and Company "A" local guard unit, to do traffic duty and handle the crowd. More than 500 musicians were in the number of bands appearing in the parade. The floats in the parade, the offering of various business places, represented a sum of money running way up in the hundreds.

And the only committee that had anything to do with the ice and water detail, according to Ira Halburton, who is willing to make affidavit that Thursday was the hottest day in the world; that "seven million people were here and that they all drank a barrel of ice water each! There's an estimate of the number attending the Festival.

More than 4,000 cars entered Fair Park for the afternoon ceremonies, and more people walked in than rode.

And to make it a perfect day, not a serious accident occurred, one arrested made for drunkenness and not a fight reported.

It was a big job the Legion took over—but they handled it.

Veteran Army Flier Afraid of Motor Car

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 15. (AP)—The attitude of Capt. Richard Duncan should be tonic to those persons who hesitate to ride in airplanes. This former flight commander in the English Royal Flying corps never has learned to drive an automobile because he's afraid to do so!

When Captain Duncan, now a flying instructor here, flew to Chicago for his wedding, it was explained that the couple would take a brief aerial honeymoon because "the groom is afraid to drive a motor car."

W. E. Atkins Talks To Kiwanis Club

Criticism Is the Barometer of Men's Energy, Speaker Observes.

Humanity is naturally disposed to destructive criticism, but the most valuable citizen is the thoughtful or courageous man who endeavors to help out with practical suggestions along any line of public service, W. E. Atkins told Hope Kiwanis club at today's luncheon in the Barlow hotel.

"We come into this world without our consent, and live here for a period, the peculiar thing being that whether we want to or not we exert some kind of influence on everyone around us," the speaker said. "If we are active and thoughtful, we exert a good influence; but if we do nothing and take no interest in what is going on around us, we exert a bad influence."

Destructive criticism is the natural reflection of men's indolence and selfishness. Mr. Atkins said, which makes constructive criticism all the rarer and more useful.

Other speakers who appeared briefly were Alex. H. Wansbrough and Frank May.

President John P. Cox introduced Little Miss Frances Turner, who gave a delightful and shrewd recitation entitled "Friends."

Negro Is Shot In Downtown Fight

O. D. Muldrow Seriously
Wounded At 2 P. M.—
Another Jailed.

A negro argument punctuated by gun-fire put one man in the hospital and another in the city jail at 2 o'clock this afternoon, in front of Oliver's sandwich shop, Walnut and Division.

O. D. Muldrow is in Julia Chester hospital with a bullet through his stomach, while the police are holding Ike Hamilton as the negro alleged to have fired the gun. Hamilton is said to have fired twice, the first shot taking effect.

Hamilton ran across the Missouri Pacific tracks on Walnut street, but was halted by Carl Greenlee, an employee of the Halliburton Sheet Metal Works, who held him until Chief Baker and Policeman Arnett arrived and arrested him. The cause of the argument was not divulged.

Ex-Football Star Held In Baltimore

Shot From Police Stops
Emmett Murray of Arkadelphia.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 15.—Emmett Murray, 26, Arkadelphia, Ark., who says he was a football star at the University of Arkansas, made a long run through a broken field in Baltimore street yesterday. What broke up the field was a shot fired by one of several patrolmen, who were anxious to tackle Murray and finally did.

The former football star's brilliant run started in a loan shop at Arch and Baltimore streets. He was trying to convert an overcoat, suitcase, camera and watch chain into cash when Patrolman John Shanahan entered. Shanahan does plain clothes duty in the pawn shop area.

The game ended at a hospital with the score standing: Murray one injured knee and one cut on the scalp; Patrolman John Shanahan one broken fist.

Murray was taken from the hospital to the Western police station, while the police began an investigation to learn where the overcoat, suitcase, camera and watch chain came from.

ARKADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Emmett Murray, reported under arrest in Baltimore, formerly lived here and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Murray. Mr. Murray is a member of the firm of McDaniel, Murray and Lee.

Murray has not lived in Arkadelphia for several years. He spends much of his time roaming about the country, although he frequently visits his parents here.

Murray played football with the Arkadelphia High School, but was, so far as is known here, never a member of the varsity squad at the University of Arkansas, as reported in the Baltimore dispatch.

Prison As Speculation Appeals To Sir Albert

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Aug. 15. Some folks speculate in city lots. Others prefer to play the stock market. As for Sir Albert Ball, business man and capitalist of Nottingham, he is not averse to taking an occasional flyer in prisons.

The other day Sir Albert bought an old one, the prison built at Derby, back in 1826 at a cost of approximately $1,625,000. When people expressed surprise, he said:

"It is valuable property. With very little alteration, the prison could be made into a fine factory or engineering works. I have bought it as a speculation, and will be ready soon to consider offers for it."

Wife Hysterical As Jury Returns Verdict of Death

Slayer of Co-Ed Shows No
Emotion As Verdict
Is Read.

APPEAL IS PLANNED Attorneys To Make Final Effort To Save Client From Chair.

COURT ROOM, Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—Dr. James Howard Snook was condemned to death Wednesday for the murder of Theora Hix, his college girl innamorata.

Mercy was not recommended in the first degree murder verdict, thus making mandatory a penalty of death.

Snook received the verdict without show of emotion. His face was flushed and his hands twitched but otherwise there was no show of feeling.

Snook was returned to the county jail immediately.

The verdict will be appealed, E. O. Ricketts, chief of defense counsel, said.

Girl's Parents Cry
Mr. and Mrs. Melvin T. Hix, parents of the dead Theora received the verdict with tears.

They had come into the courtroom just before Prosecutor John Chester began his final plea to the jury.

They complimented members of the jury—eleven men and one woman—as did Chester and Trial Judge Henry L. Scarlett.

"You made a tremendous sacrifice," Judge Scarlett said. "Your verdict is fair."

Snook's wife, Helen, and his 73-year-old mother, who were in the courtroom when the jury retired, sat out of sight in an ante room as the verdict was read.

Snook was taken through the ante room as he was led to jail and his wife broke down and sobbed hysterically.

His mother, her face tear streaked, clasped her son's hands and muttered words of encouragement.

Plan New Trial Plea
Before the courtroom was cleared Judge Scarlett, at the request of defense counsel, set Monday as the date for the hearing of a motion for a new trial. Sentence will be deferred until after the motion is heard.

The verdict was reached on the first ballot. It came so quickly the jury scarcely had time to organize. Betters had wagered that Snook would get less than the chair—possibly manslaughter and even an acquittal.

Leniency Was Expected
The defense had confidently predicted leniency.

Unless Judge Scarlett grants a motion for new trial, Dr. Snook will be taken to the death house in the state penitentiary some time next week.

He must be given three months grace before he is strapped into the death chair. This will give his appeals through the state courts and to the United States supreme court if they desired.

Snook, meantime, is not eligible to bond.

Out Only 28 Minutes
The jury, which for two weeks had heard unprintable evidence of a sordid and illicit love, found the former American pistol champion guilty after 28 minutes of deliberation.

The jury—11 men and one woman—retired to deliberate at 2:53 p. m., with Prosecutor Chester's demand for death ringing in their ears.

"Show this fiend mercy," Chester cried, "show him the same mercy he showed Theora Hix—death."

The jury scarcely had had time to organize when Trial Judge Henry L. Scarlett was summoned. A moment later, 28 minutes from the time they had retired, the jurors filed in.

"We, the jury," ran the verdict, to its fatal conclusion, "find the defendant guilty of first degree murder and do not recommend mercy."

Wife, Mother Meet Him
As Dr. Snook was led from the courtroom, his wife and mother, the former weeping hysterically met him in an ante room. The mother, despite her 73 years, was the braver of the two. Tears trickled down her cheeks. She clasped her son's hands and kissed him.

Morrilton's Cotton Mill

HARVEY COUCH seems to be getting the short end of a community industrial deal over at Morrilton, Ark. Mr. Couch started off with the electric franchise in Morrilton, and when the industrial movement began to be felt in Arkansas a few years ago he headed a company to start a cotton mill, in which Morrilton citizens invested about $100,000. The mill is "broke" and about to be sold for its debts, and now Morrilton citizens are planning to take away Mr. Couch's electric franchise and start a municipal plant.

Electric rates are one thing—and Morrilton probably has a pretty good case against Mr. Couch on this score—but planning and successful executing an industrial venture is something else again.

It seems to us that here is a case where the small investors of a city and a nationally known captain of finance have been caught in the same disaster; and needless to say, the same business rule covers both. The man who can protect his original investment will be the one who comes out of it successfully. The Morrilton Democrat suggests that Mr. Couch go to extra lengths to save part of the investment of local citizens. But it would be more timely to suggest that the citizens of Morrilton, now that they have their feet wet, join Mr. Couch in a proposal to re-finance the venture.

That would be a business-like proposition, and furthermore, in defense of the good judgment of the Morrilton citizens who risked their money in the original investment, it ought to be said that textile mills can't do as well as they did in Arkansas. Monticello has had a successful mill for many years. Magnolia's cotton mill began earning a net profit at the end of the first six months' operations.

The fact that the Morrilton mill has closed down, in bankruptcy, doesn't mean anything more than the original investors must put up additional money and see the thing through. It is a common experience in the financing of textile mills, and shouldn't discourage the Morrilton people.

When Curtis Hurley, publisher of the Morrilton Democrat, and this writer were in North Carolina in 1926 we heard the engineering firm of Sirrine & Sirrine tell 109 South Arkansas business men that probably 90 per cent of all the original money invested in textile mills went through one or more re-organizations before success was attained. The Sirrines went on to say that except for cases of speculation in raw cotton there were virtually no instances of mill failures in the long run.

The thing that Morrilton is just now learning is, that the primary factor in any industry is the selling end, not the manufacturing process. The manufacturing ability of industry is virtually unlimited—but it is the merchandising end that tells the story.

Lamar Williamson, the Monticello attorney, tells a thrilling story of the founding and later reorganizations of the cotton mill in his home community. Down at Magnolia they have apparently gotten by with their original capital and personnel. But there will be more communities with the experience of Monticello and Morrilton, than Magnolia—that is the rule of the textile business.

Incidentally, we want to commend a certain home industry to the people of Hope and Hempstead county, because it exemplifies a perfect sales organization to which the manufacturing process is subordinate. We refer to the Kraft-Phenix cheese factory. Blytheville started a cheese factory which is now shut down, so we understand; and there are numerous other independent cheese plants, most of which are in difficulties. They haven't the proper selling connection to guarantee uninterrupted production.

But Hope's plant has. And that is something to be thankful for.

A Fine Job

WHEN you consider the way in which smart lawyers usually contrive to drag a criminal case out for months and years, you must admit that Kansas City deserves a bit of credit for the way it has punished the murderers of Patrolman "Happy" Smith.

Perhaps you remember that murder. It took place during a holdup that marked the Republican National Convention week, just about a year ago. Five gangsters held up a bank and killed Smith when he tried to interfere.

Three of these bandits are now in the condemned cells, awaiting hanging. The other day a fourth was sent to the penitentiary to serve a life term. Only one man remains at large.

Kansas City has done a good job of avenging Smith's murderers.

The First Hundred Years Probably Will Be the Hardest

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—A few foreign nations may be planning reprisals in case they are affected by the next tariff law, but there will be some surprise around here in case any such reprisals are carried out. Virtually all of them try so hard to impress this government as to how nice and important they are that any such course would be a reversal of policy.

The best evidence of the anxiety of other governments to stand in with Uncle Sam, who is so important himself and who has so much money, is to be seen in the caliber of diplomats who are sent to Washington and the continual process of building bigger and better embassies and legations. Most of them send their very best men to represent them here and often they house these men in mansions whose size and expense is well out of proportion to their national wealth.

They Rate Very High Socially, at least. Washington responds cordially to these obvious overtures. Perhaps Washington society, based so much as it is on the official rank of federal jobholders, is easily dazzled. At any rate, whereas diplomats in other capitals keep comparatively to themselves, are most often surrounded by their own countrymen and frequently abide in second-rate quarters, in Washington they are virtually the first social layer. Social activity appears to revolve around them. The mere rank of an attaché casts so much glamour in this town that it is no wonder so many bus boys and waiters of foreign descent have posed as such in their heart-breaking campaigns.

The social functions which attract the most attention here are generally diplomatic. The Chilean ambassador's dinner, at which Mrs. Gann was placed in the seat she wanted, and the British ambassador's dinner, where Mrs. Gann didn't take a drink, have had more publicity than any other dinners within the year.

Hardly anyone will question that Washington now has the highest grade diplomatic colony in the world. Howard of Britain is rounding out a brilliant career of foreign service, Claudel of France was world-famous before he came here, Davila was one of the ablest men in Chile, Prince De Ligne of Belgium is the top of his country's diplomatic heap, Tellez of Mexico is perhaps the ablest of his nationality except for Plutarco Calles, Nicaragua's Sacasa was her constitutional president and Central America's most distinguished surgeon, and similar nice things might be said about many other heads of missions.

The more important diplomats have large allowances for entertainment—another indication of the world's anxiety to please. The British ambassador, one hears, has $50,000 a year for entertainment purposes. And more and more money is being poured into new buildings. In the last three or four years, a dozen diplomats representing a tiny group of smaller nations have moved out of dark old houses or hotel rooms into handsome quarters infinitely superior. And those of larger nations have in several instances moved from what appeared satisfactory quarters to any outsider into splendid palaces.

Charm is the measure of attraction's power
To chain the fleeting fancy of an hour,
And rival all the spell of beauty's dower,
A subtle grace of heart and mind,
That flows with tactful sympathy;
The sweetest rose if not the fairest,
That the garden knows—
A quick responsiveness in word and deed,
A dignity and stateliness at need—
The will to follow and the art to lead—
She, to whom this most precious gift is known
Has life's great potent factor for her own,
And rules alike the cottage and the throne.

One of the most attractive social affairs of the mid-summer season, was the bridge party given yesterday morning by Mrs. George Robison at her home on East Third street as special compliment to Mrs. Alvin Wilson of Okla. City, and Mrs. Arthur Johnson of Clanton, Ala., house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stewart. The spacious Robison home so well adapted for entertainments was beautifully decorated with tall wicker floor baskets overflowing with rich summer flowers and attractively arranged for seven tables. High score favor went to Mrs. Elbert Crutchfield, cut prize to Mrs. R. V. Herndon, and gifts of remembrance were presented to the honorees. Assisting the hostess in serving a most tempting salad and ice course were Mrs. John Green of Little Rock, Mrs. Arch Moore, Mrs. Max Cox and Mrs. E. P. Stewart. Out of town guests other than the honorees, were Mrs. Hosea Garrett of Pine Bluff, Mrs. Glennie Graham of Chicago, Mrs. W. F. Broening of Little Rock and Miss Ashcraft of Alabama.

A pretty wedding that will be of interest to the friends of the bride and groom over the state is that of Miss Mildred Smith and Brent, McPherson, which was solemnized yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Don Smith on South Elm street. Members of the families and close friends were present at the ceremony, which was said by Dr. Francis Buddin, pastor of the First Methodist church. For the occasion, the Smith home was prettily decorated in mid-summer flowers, with the beautiful pink myrtle gracefully arranged and attractively placed in vases and floor baskets. The place of ceremony was marked by two tall floor baskets filled with rich summer flowers. Before the entrance of the bride and groom, Mrs. Charlotte Holloman played "Moon Dawn" and "The Venetian Love Song." Mrs. Tully Henry sang, "The Love Call," and "I Love You Truly" accompanied by Miss Holloman, who also played the wedding march. The winsome girlish beauty of the bride was never more pronounced than in her wedding gown, an autumn model of French crepe, with color combinations of brown and tan, with burnt orange suede trimmings and matching accessories. She is the oldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Smith, a graduate of Ouchita college, and was a popular teacher in the city schools last term. The groom who is the son of Mrs. G. D. Eldridge of Benton, is a traveling salesman, with headquarters in this city for the past year, during which time he has made many friends. Mr. and Mrs. McPherson left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip to Dallas, Texas. They will reside in Benton. Out of town relatives and friends attending the wedding were Mrs. G. D. Eldridge of Benton, Mrs. F. E. McPherson, Mrs. J. G. Clark, Mrs. Dallas Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross and

Uncarth Vault Beneath Capitol

Looks like someone was trying to undermine the government! Here's the entrance to an unexplained chamber, almost under the Capitol steps in Washington, discovered by workmen laying a pipe. There is no know record of the vault and no indication of what use it was put to. Eighty feet square, and three feet under ground, it is believed to have been unentered for at least 50 years. A passageway to the Capitol basement had been sealed.

U. G. Stoy states that the only safe way to start in the dairy business is to start slowly, and grow into it. "There are so many tricks in the trade that much time is required to learn them and one never learns them all," stated Mr. Stoy while talking about how to start in the business. Pastures require time to develop and they are a prime essential in the profitable production of milk. The only safe way to go into the dairy business is to grow into it, and as Mr. McCalin stated in his talk here before the group of Key Farmers "Don't think if you are in the dairy business in a small way that the business itself is small, because it isn't it; the biggest farm business we have and the business will be just as big as you are." Sound business principles must be applied to dairying as well as they must to any business if we wish to make a success of it.

The boll weevil injury is beyond our control at present; therefore let us turn our attention to more important matters such as the planting of winter pasture crops for our cows. Have you secured your supply of eye and oat seed? If you haven't the quicker you can get them the better. Abruzzi rye is the only rye to depend on for pasture in this section and N. P.

He's Frail—But What a Fighter!

Scarcely five feet tall, thin and frail of body, and a life-long cripple, Philip Snowden, above, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, has started a real row in European diplomacy. Dan Bateman believed last spring that hog prices would be good this year in September; therefore he decided to have about 20 head ready for the market at that time. If you want to see a fine bunch of hogs which have been pushed for the market from the beginning see Bateman's hogs. A cooperative car of hogs will be shipped out by the Hempstead County Livestock Shipping Association about the last week of September. If anyone in the county have hogs it is well to get them ready for this shipment. Mr. Bateman will undoubtedly make a good profit from these hogs.

"Soy Beans," states Ruffin White "Should be cut as soon as the first beans begin to form in the pod. This will occur a few weeks after the first blooms appear since the beans are very slow in forming. Another indication of the time to cut them for hay is when the bottom leaves begin to turn yellow. Mr. White has 12 acres which certainly look well. He will have plenty of legume hay for his cows this winter which will insure a supply of cheap milk.

Vetch is the crop to plant for soil building and it should be sown in the cotton middles in September. Zeb Miller states that this crop makes an excellent hay crop when sown with fall oats. After the oats are harvested the land can be plowed immediately and planted to peas.

We so commonly hear the expression that the farmers needs to organize, but that he can or will never do it; then a list of failures are recited as evidence. Cooperative organizations are young among farmers so to speak and we do not expect an acorn to grow into a tree over night, nor a baby to grow into a man in a short time. Therefore should we expect the Coop's to be successful at the first try?

"He rose promptly. 'I don't blame you,' he admitted, 'or being pretty rough on me. I've been a good deal of an egg. But there's nothing I wouldn't do for Rita, or for you, Molly.'"

"Thanks," she murmured. "Awfully good of you, I'm sure."

"When he had gone, she wrote two letters. One to Red, and one to Jack. It was fun, writing Red, and, and a lot of satisfaction. He had heard, of course, of the success of "Sacrifice." And the efforts of censors.

"Red loved that sort of thing. Censorship infuriated him. And it gave pleased him more than to have the censored profit by the actions of the censors. Divine justice," called it.

"He had sent her a congratulatory wire from Ottawa, begging to see her. She would send him what she could. She had, and tell him how pleased Mr. Durbin was with the activities of the censors.

"While she was writing, Durbin himself phoned. Everything was going wonderfully, he declared. They were selling three weeks in advance. The evening papers had carried stories. And there was no lack of pallocking the theatre.

"I wish you'd come over," he said. "The little girl I have on already says she could arrange to do things, if you were on the spot."

"And because she had lost the little shining diamond that was his gift to her.

"Dearest," she began—no, that wouldn't do. "Dear Jack" . . . Too casual. "Dear Boy" . . . sounded all right. . . . not "Dearest Boy," but just "Dear Boy" Not too exclusive. But familiar. Loving, but not extravagant.

"I am sending you a silver ring. Luerzia Borgiu, they say, had one exactly like it. And she hid her poison powders in it—"

"Oh, dear no—that wouldn't do at all. Acting as if nothing had happened.

"Dear Boy,"

"I wonder who the charming lady was I saw you with at the theatre . . ."

"Hypocrite! Hypocrite! Hypocrite!" "Charming lady"—that odious creature! Besides, he might think she Better try once more. Tell him about little Rita, and the beautiful new apartment, and what fun it was having a baby in the house. She would just refer to the ring in a P. S. It would be better that way.

Anyone would think that a girl who could write plays could write a letter easily enough. But it was dawn before Molly went to bed. Red's letter she put in a big

She laughed at his eagerness.
Not even for you," she retorted, ut it was something amusing to rite Red. She filled sheet after sheet with the tale. He would delighted with the enterprise of censors. Mr. Durbin said they done more for the play than all billboard advertising in New York.

It was late when she began s's letter. It wasn't fun writing as it used to be. There were many things now she couldn't ce about. "Sacrifice," for ince. He was probably shocked the censorship scandal.

Besides, there was that horrid, girl woman, Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton, a girl couldn't very well write a ing letter to an ex-sweetheart ce, red creature, old enough to is own mother. Still there was hurriedly typed. Jack's letter was handwritten on her best stationery.

There was a single sheet, and the writing did not quite fill it. Red's letter had taken 30 minutes to type and Jack's three hours to compose.

When she had finished she was physically exhausted. Her head ached, and her throat. And there were pains in the backs of her knees. She was cold, too, although the night was warm.

When she was ready for bed, she slipped a dressing gown over her night dress, and tiptoed in the nursery. Rita lay on her back, with her cheek turned against the pillow, and both her little hands thrown up over her head.

It must have been because Molly was tired, that she buried her head in the blankets, and began to cry.
She felt very sad, remembering that Ruth and Rita had died, and Jack had taken a dreadful fat woman to the theatre.

Presently she was crying out loud. Then little Rita woke. With-her baby fingers, she drew Molly's hands down from her face and tried to kiss her tears away. And when Molly still wept, little Rita wept, too. Until Molly took the child in her arms, and carried her into the kitchen, to sit on the table and watch, while she made cocoa for them both.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The Cub ball players call Guy Bush, one of the star pitchers, "Nig". The Boys say that McGraw tossed in the sponge when he left his dirt and went on a scouting trip. Kid Chocolate uses heavy grease to keep his hair shiny. And when he gets hot in the ring the grease runs down his face. And helps to skid punches off his map. Knute Rucke tells the story of a football coach who persuaded a wealthy alumnus to put up the dough for a movie scouting system. The scouts were to take movies of the opposition instead of making diagrams. And when the first films were shown they depicted the coach getting off the train, shaking hands with celebrities and depriving himself like Hollywood. And when the action pictures were shown there was nothing but a blur. And when the action pictures were shown there was nothing but a blur. And it cost the old grad six grand.

The home field of the Cubs and that of the Athletics are home run parks and there are heavy hitters on each of the two clubs. The Cubs are a great home club and so are the A's. If this really means anything the Cubs will get the jump because the series will open this year in the National League city. Seventeen Years to Get There. Reporters assigned to covering ship news in New York have a favorite story about one of their members who went to a wild party on a ship one night and woke up in Singapore. Henry Edwards, the genial and obliging publicity director of the American League, comes through with a little baseball yarn that recalls the sea going story.

"Did you know," he writes, "that Ken Williams signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox in 1911 and it took him 17 years to get to the club?" "After he signed he was released to the Sacramento club without reporting to Boston. Then he played with Regina, Edmonton, Spokane, Cincinnati, Portland and St. Louis, where he spent nine years with the Browns. Finally, after those 17 years he landed with the Red Sox."

DIX HAS GREAT SUPPORT IN "THE WHEEL OF LIFE"

Myrtle Stedman, who left the opera stage to join the old Selig company at the start of her motion picture career, and who since that time has appeared in scores of features and starring pictures, will be seen and heard in her first all-talking film, "The Wheel of Life," a Paramount starring Richard Dix at the Saenger theatre for two days beginning on next Friday. Miss Stedman plays an important supporting comedy role in the play which is a dramatic romance built around the British military service in India and the Tibetan wilderness. Esther Ralston and O. P. Heggie are cast in the leading supporting roles.

Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, is shown above in several action shots while he was defending his title against Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, in Chicago. Mandell is the boxer in the black trunks. In the upper left he is shown using the left jab that won the fight for him. In the upper right he is shown again keeping his opponent away from him with a long left. In the lower left the lightweight is weaving under a left hook. His perfect fighting stance is shown in the lower center and on the right his hand is being raised by the referee as the victor.

What Jimmie Tillman, the Atlanta, Texas, battler who meets Steele here tonight can do is not known, but reports from down the line are to the effect that a bunch of fellows will be up here to back their judgment with their cash, said judgment being that Tillman wins. On paper it is a good-looking show, promising plenty of action and that's what Hope fans want. The boys in the preliminaries are well matched up and rate, there will be some real boxing. Striking Back At Striking Carmen

New Orleans Council Puts Weight To Jitney Operators.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Sharply at noon today the anti-jitney ordinance went into effect, and jitneys are under the law restrained from transporting passengers during the strike period. This action followed rioting at the city hall Monday morning by the striking carmen.

Extra police were distributed along jitney routes to ascertain if each driver had made the $5,000 casualty bond required under the ordinance. Heavily armed guards were thrown around the city hall to prevent a repetition of the violent outbreak of Monday morning.

Bertrand J. Cahn, city attorney, in an opinion to police heads this morning, held that Jitney drivers who offered free fare and then accepted a gratuity were violating the jitney law and should be punished.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Police today arrested a man recently released from the Minnesota insane asylum as a suspect in the slaying of 12-year-old Dorothy Aune.

The identity of the man suspect was not disclosed, but police said his shoes were stained with blood and he was unable to give a satisfactory account of his whereabouts Tuesday night and Wednesday when the body of the girl was found, wrapped in gunny sacks, in a vacant lot in the down-town railroad section.

Two Derelict Schooners Sighted In Mid-Ocean

PUERTO PLATA, San Domingo Aug. 15.—Two derelicts in mid-ocean have been discovered by vessels arriving here. The Elders and Fyffe steamship Motague on her way to Kingston passed the derelict schooner Quaco Queen drifting in a northeasterly direction. The Quaco was abandoned at sea in February last along the Canadian coast. She was seen about a month ago and has since drifted 107 miles southward. Captain Lerge of the Montague lowered speed and drifted near enough to the Queen to identify her by name.

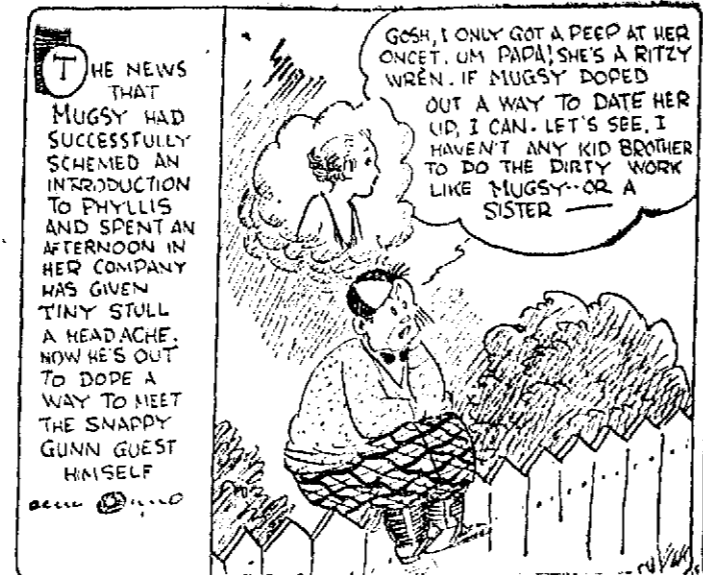

The Webster steamship Eros on her way from Trinidad passed a derelict schooner in latitude 15.27, North longitude 65.50 West. About ten feet of her rigging projected out of the water. The Eros sailed within 20 yards of the derelict. The name of the vessel could not be ascertained as her hull was under the surface of the sea.

Above is a closeup of Alderman today, while the small picture shows him with closely-clipped head just after his capture. The Broward county courthouse at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on the roof of which a gallows has been erected for his hanging, is shown below.

Kentucky's Criminals Impressed By Lesson of Two Condemned Men

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Once a week the silent men and women expiating their crimes against society in Kentucky's penal institutions hear a practical lesson in the folly of law violation.

In every penal institution and jail in the state they hear the story of two men who transgressed the law against murder and soon will pay the penalty the state exacts by forfeiting their lives.

It is not because of any interest in the brutal crimes but execution of a method conceived by Governor Sampson to impress law violators through concrete evidence that crime does not pay.

It is his proclamation, read to the prisoners each week through which the story of the two convicted murderers is unfolded and will be repeated until the two men die in the electric chair at the state prison September 13.

In his proclamation, the governor says: "May this lesson be deeply engraven upon the hearts and minds of the criminally inclined, that they may not forget it. Virtue must be regarded for its priceless worth. It is deplorable that men living in the greatest country should violate the rules of society and make it necessary to pay three extreme penalty and die an ignominious death on the gallows or in the electric chair. Respect for, and obedience to all laws is essential to peace, prosperity and

Georgia Hen Fights Rattlesnake To End

GRIFFIN, Ga., Aug. 15.—(AP)—There is one less rattlesnake in the world because he paid too little attention to hen-pecking. Liege River-ers, chicken fancier of Griffin, recently found one of his hens and a rattlesnake coiled around her, both dead. The rattler's poison did its work on her but was pecked to death. The hen had killed the snake to protect her brood of chicks.

Buy Your Tires on a Guaranteed Mileage Basis Save $2 to $15 per Tire

ALL tires look good . . . when they're new. And they are good. But the big question that concerns the buyer is—"How Good?"

To that question . . . names, claims, differences in price, do not offer the final answer

So far as we know, there is only one thing that does answer the question: a definite, specific GUARANTEE of the minimum mileage your tire will deliver

That is the basis—and the ONLY basis—on which automobile tires are sold by Montgomery Ward & Co.

The names RIVERSIDE and WARDWEAR are as good as any other tire names. But we do not advance names as the reason why you should buy from Ward's. Our tires are built by nationally-known manufacturers—of the finest materials and by the most modern methods . . . yet that is not the chief reason why millions of motorists are today riding on RIVERSIDES. We also claim that these tires represent more value per dollar than any other tires built . . . yet similar claims are offered on behalf of other brands.

None of these things decides the question of QUALITY. So—we offer you Ward's three guarantees . . . 30,000 miles unconditionally on the Super Service RIVERSIDE; 16,000 miles on the First-Quality RIVERSIDE; 10,000 miles on the WARDWEAR . . . as instant indicators of the tire quality you can count on when you buy from Ward's.

—And Ward's prices clinch the argument with a SAVING of $2 to $15 on every tire!

Visit our store today—examine these tires for yourself. Remember: the proof of any advertisement is the performance of the product—and RIVERSIDE performance is definitely guaranteed! That's why we say: Do not pay more for any other tire unless more miles are guaranteed.
